ISSUE OF BONDS FOR GOOD ROADS

Two Districts in Wise County Authorize $260,000 by Big Majorities.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Big Stone Gap, Va., December 21.—Richmond Magisterial District, of Wise County, voted today to issue $120,000 of bonds to complete the system of roads in the district. There were 245 votes for the issue and 28 against the issue, making a majority for the bond issue of 217 votes.

Practically all of the proceeds of this issue will be used to put macadam on roads already graded, under the $700,000 issue of Wise County, made in November, 1910. This will give Richmond District, which includes the towns of Big Stone Gap, Appalachia and East Stone Gap, and the mining towns of Stone Gap, Tunnel, Tunnel, Alaska, Roda, Arno and Blackwood, about fifty miles of macadam roads, which will connect up the coal fields with the farming section of the district.

Gladesville District, of Wise County, also voted today on a like issue for that purpose of $100,000. Full returns were not in, but it has been carried by about 200 majority. This gives Wise County $1,010,000 road bonds.

MAYOR AINSLIE GIVES APPROVAL

Tenders His Office as Place to Organize Richmond Athletic Association.

New life was engendered in the movement for the organization of the Richmond Athletic Association yesterday, when Mayor Ainslie extended an invitation to Frank S. Tousey, physical director of the Church Civic Association, who is promoting the athletic association, to meet in his office on the night of January 9 for the purpose of perfecting the organization. The invitation was accepted, and the meeting will be held that night. It will not be a public meeting, but representatives of the seventeen or more clubs and organizations in the city are requested to be present that night to take part in perfecting the Greater Richmond Athletic Association.

"I heartily approve of the Richmond Athletic Association," said Mayor Ainslie yesterday. "Such an organization is destined to work as great good for the young men of the city as the Amateur Baseball Association has done, and I consider that the Amateur Baseball Association has done more than any other athletic club or organization in Richmond in developing the young men of the city. Physical development means the getting away from the temptations which take the young men away from the higher paths of life, and serves to develop the latent talent of the boys, besides prolonging life and battling away disease."

The Mayor's hearty words of commendation added new life to those behind the movement. At the meeting on January 9, a president will be elected, as will other officers for the athletic association. Committees will be named and a constitution and by-laws will be decided upon.

It is proposed to bring together under one head all of the young men now members of other organizations in the city, and under the direction of competent instructors drill the boys and young men in the various sports.

each one selecting any number of the various kinds of athletic events in which he desires to contest. This will mean many classes and teams will engender a rivalry which will cause every member to exert his best efforts to make the classes or teams successful in whatever events they may participate.

Ways and means will be provided for the upkeep of the proposed association, and these plans will be thoroughly discussed at the meeting to be held next week. There is great need for such an organization in Richmond. The city's continuous and remarkable growth, the great number of young men in need of proper exercise, the possibility of developing athletes of all kinds, and the benefits to be derived from such an association, will cause a hearty public approval and support of the Richmond Athletic Association when it is formally launched at the meeting on December 9.

Director Tousey is a man of energy and progressive ideas, and he has the interest of the young men of the city very much at heart. He has accomplished a wonderful work over the city, where daily hundreds of boys and young men are receiving proper physical exercise. But there is a demand for this work to spread to all parts of the city, and the Richmond Athletic Association, when organized, will be open to the entire city.

Elsewhere in this issue is a coupon for the young men to fill out. It is intended to convey to the representatives of the various organizations when they assemble in the Mayor's office the desires of the young men of the city relative to what kind of sports they are the most interested in, for it will be the purpose of the proposed organization to cater to and all the desires of the boys so far as is practicable.

Every line of sport will be given attention and no boy's wishes will be allowed to go by without due consideration. It is up to the boys and the young men to help arouse interest and bring about the successful organization of the athletic association, and they can do this by filling in the coupon and mailing it to the parties stated.

Among the organizations signing the petition is the traffic bureau of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, of which E. S. Goodman is manager. Mr. Goodman received yesterday a copy of the articles drawn up by the committee.

As the rates now stand a passenger is allowed to check, free of charge, 150 pounds of baggage, provided he has a ticket for first-class passage. On all excess of 150 pounds a charge is made approximating 15 to 25 per cent of a first-class fare.

Until 1908 the charge was only 12 to 15 per cent, and the baggage committee, contending that such an amount is a reasonable and just charge, asks the Interstate Commerce Commission to lower the rates to restore the former tariff.

The request is also made that insurance charges be reduced to a maximum of one-tenth of 1 per cent in excess of $100 or fraction thereof in excess of the minimum allowance.

The present charge is based on a schedule of 10 per cent of the excess baggage rate, with a minimum rate of 10 cents per 100.

The litigation over the question involved in the brief was one of long standing. The National Baggage Commission, in beginning its work toward a reduction of the excess tariffs, made overtures to the railroad companies themselves, but were not successful.

As a last resort the committee has appealed to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

FELLS DETECTIVE AND MAKES ESCAPE

Negro Wanted for $6,000 Theft in Washington Knocks Down Sergeant Wiley.

OVER $5,000 RECOVERED

Prisoner Was Employed as Runner in Bank—Found at Grandmother's Home.

Knocking Detective Sergeant Wiley down while that officer was sending in a call for the patrol wagon this morning at 12:45 o'clock at St. Peter and Baker Streets, Webster Morton, colored, twenty-five years old, wanted in Washington, D. C., for stealing $6,000 from a bank where he was employed as a runner, made good his escape. Detective Sergeant Kellam, who was with Sergeant Wiley, emptied all the bullets from his revolver at the fleeing negro, while Wiley fired four times. None of the shots hit the fugitive.

A telegram was received yesterday by Chief of Police Werner from Major Sylvester, superintendent of the Washington department, asking that a search be made in this city for Morton, Wiley and Kellam located him at the home of his grandmother, 101 1/2 West Jackson Street, yesterday afternoon. He was not in the house, however, but the premises were searched, and the detectives found a catbox which contained $5,846, said to be the money stolen from the Washington bank.

Waited Seven Hours.

From 7 o'clock last night until midnight the officers waited for Morton's return. When he came in at 12:30 o'clock he submitted quietly to arrest and appeared unusually humble. Neither Wiley nor Kellam entertained the slightest thought he would attempt to escape.

He was walked to the box at St. Peter and Baker Streets, where a call was to have been sent to the Second Police Station for the patrol. As Wiley opened the box's door, the prisoner suddenly hit him a staggering blow, knocked him from the curb, drew his revolver and fired six shots. Wiley was quickly on his feet and let go four bullets. Morton made a clean get-away.

A general alarm was at once sent in and steps taken to cut off every avenue of escape to prevent Morton leaving the city.

Snatched After Quarrel.

W. N. Kellam, of 130 North Twenty-fifth street, was snatched in the night by a man, said to be E. L. Gettins, who was later arrested. The snatching took place at Seventh and Broad Streets. Kellam was moved to his home and was treated by Dr. J. N. Williams, City Hospital ambulance surgeon. The wound was not regarded as serious. The snatching was understood to be the result of a quarrel between Kellam and Gettins.

Say He Stole Auto Tires.

T. G. Borch was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with stealing two automobile tires, valued at $40, from O. E. Lane, Griggs.

SULZER RECEIVES FAMOUS MESSAGE

Delivered to Him by Suffragette Pilgrims Who Walked From New York.

IN SYMPATHY WITH THEM

He Will Recommend to Legislature Passage of Woman Suffrage Amendment.

Albany, N. Y., December 31.—The "message" which the suffragette pilgrims carried on foot from New York to Albany was placed in Governor-Elect Sulzer's hands by "General" Rosalie Gardiner Jones this afternoon. The Governor-elect assured the pilgrims that he would co-operate with them to obtain equal suffrage. The "message," the contents of which were kept secret until Governor-Elect Sulzer saw it, said:

"The suffrage hosts of the Empire State send greetings and renewed congratulations to Governor William L. Sulzer, and express the earnest hope that his administration may be distinguished by the speedy passage of a woman suffrage amendment."

It was signed by representatives of the various State equal suffrage organizations.

Governor-Elect Sulzer read the message. Then, turning, he looked into the faces of the entire army assembled in front of the executive mansion, and said slowly and impressively:

"This is O. K. with one exception. I have no middle name. I'm just plain William Sulzer."

Looks of Dismay Vanish.

Looks of dismay which spread over the faces of each officer, private, and recruit quickly vanished, however, when the Governor-elect smilingly continued:

"Notwithstanding, I receive this message in the spirit in which it is sent. As a matter of political justice, I have always favored equal suffrage for men and women, and have recommended, in my messages, that the Legislature pass, as soon as possible, a woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution of the State of New York. You ladies deserve commendation for your enthusiasm for a great cause that ought to be respected by everybody and receive the consideration it merits. I congratulate you on the successful outcome of your pilgrimage and assure you that in the future, as in the past, that all I can do for your cause will be done."

All of those who had made the long march were present when the message was delivered. Headed by "General" Jones, the marchers, still carrying their staffs and knapsacks, were introduced to the Governor-elect and placed the message in his hands.

The pilgrims later returned to their hotel, where a few of them were to remain in Albany for the ceremonies incident to Governor Sulzer's inauguration, while others returned home to-night.

WOMAN PHYSICIAN IS MURDER VICTIM

State laboratories, where she was employed as a pathologist. She resigned, and in 1909 Dr. Craig gave her a place as lecturer in the veterinary college, where he is the head. Later trouble occurred at the college, and the lectures ceased for a time, but were resumed and continued until just before the woman was killed.

That Dr. Knabe was a persistent visitor at the home of Dr. Craig for two weeks just prior to her death is a statement credited to Mrs. Tennant.

Dr. Craig's housekeeper, regarding a visit to the home by Dr. Knabe are produced in the report as coming from Dr. E. D. Templeton, a friend of Dr. Knabe, whose services were obtained by the detective in interviewing Mrs. Tennant. The detective did not wish to make himself known to Mrs. Tennant.

The report states that Dr. Knabe arrived at the Craig home while the family was at supper, and was asked to eat. She declined, saying she was hungry. After the meal, Dr. Knabe and Craig talked in another room, and a quarrel arose. In which their proposed marriage was discussed. Mrs. Tennant is quoted as saying Dr. Knabe burst into tears and said: "You can continue to practice, and I can continue to practice." Dr. Craig replied: "I will have none of this."

He took her from the house to his automobile, the report states, and did not return until late, presumably having spent the intervening hours at Dr. Knabe's apartment.

Last Visit to Craig Home.

On the night of her death, Dr. Knabe was stated in the report, Dr. Knabe went to the Craig home to return a boog she had borrowed. She and Marion, Dr. Craig's daughter, talked a long time. Mrs. Tennant is said to have told Dr. Templeton, Dr. Craig was not at home.

Harry W. Haskett, who has charge of a billiard hall, said he identified Dr. Craig as the man he had met on the night of the murder. He said that Dr. Craig's daughter, after picking up Dr. Craig, was out of half a dozen others. Haskett's statement is that about 11 o'clock, as he passed the passageway in the apartment house where Dr. Knabe resided, he saw a man suddenly step out to the sidewalk.

Dr. Craig is a widower about forty years old, and is a native of Scotland. He is fifty-four years old, and a prominent in business and professional circles of the city.

ACTOR WAS BORN HERE

Thomas J. Evans, the "Mr. Howland" in "Killing Time," is Native Richmonder.

To many old Richmonders who attended the performance of "Killing Time" last night and Monday at the Academy of Music, there was probably a familiar ring in the name of Thomas J. Evans, a distinguished actor and dramatist of this city in former times.

"Mr. Howland" father was Henry Tate Evans, a Confederate soldier with a splendid record, who spent the latter years of his life in the military home on account of the loss of his leg. The present Thomas J. Evans has spent the greater portion of his life on the stage, but up to the time he was taken on as a member of Mrs. Haskett's company played almost entirely in stock.

BURNS RECORDS BEFORE SUICIDE

Aged City Treasurer Destroys Books, Then Shoots Himself.

Griffin, Ga., December 31.—After investigation of the city records by expert accountants, it became known here today that Thomas Nall, for thirty-eight years city treasurer of Griffin, shot and killed himself here November 1 after having, it is said, burned practically all the records of his office. Until today it was generally believed that Nall's death was due to apoplexy.

The suicide is said to have followed Mayor J. Henry Smith's demand for an investigation of the books of all city officials for the purpose of installing a new accounting system.

Statements of the City Hall janitor and the clerk in the Nall home brought out the allegation that Nall had been burning books at his office and home just before the tragedy.

Practically all the records of unpaid and back taxes are missing, and for this reason it is believed the report of the accountants will not be made for some time.

Seaboard Earnings.

The approximate gross earnings of the Seaboard Air Line Railway for the week of December were $206,335, an increase of $2,000 over the figures for the same week of 1912, which were $204,335. For the entire year up to December 22 the earnings of the system were $1,002,630, an increase of $12,740 over the preceding year.
